

Safeguarding Policy

The Women's Liberation Collective (The Charity) is committed to safeguarding and protecting the welfare of all who use its service. The Charity recognises that it has a responsibility, along with others, to protect the welfare of adults at risk and children accessing support through their services. While The Charity doesn't currently have children accessing our services, we do include safeguarding children within this policy to ensure we are considering the needs of children, for if we did begin any work with children.

The charity aims to ensure a consistent approach and commitment to high standards of practice in safeguarding the welfare of adults at risk and children. As a third-tier provider of training, the charity has no statutory remit or role to investigate abuse of adults at risk and children but acknowledges its responsibility to pass on to the appropriate statutory agency concerns in relation to the safety or welfare of an adult at risk or child so that these concerns can be assessed.

The action we take to promote the welfare of adults at risk and children, and protect them from harm, is everyone's responsibility. Everyone who comes into contact with adults at risk or children has a role to play.

This Policy applies to all trustees, staff and volunteers working for or on behalf of The Charity who have contact with adults at risk or children, or who have responsibility for contractors and organisations providing services on behalf of The Charity.

This policy seeks to ensure that staff and volunteers working with adults at risk and children have a good understanding of safeguarding guidelines and good practice.

Definitions and responsibilities

Adults at risk

An adult at risk is a person aged 18 years or over who is receiving or could need community care services and is (or may be) unable to protect themselves from significant harm or serious exploitation. This may be because they have mental ill-health, a disability or because they are old, frail or ill.

In this context community care services includes all care services provided in any setting by any agency whether statutory, voluntary or independent in health or social care including hospitals, housing agencies and advice services.

Definition of abuse

The definition of abuse set out below is taken from the Department of Health document “No Secrets: guidance on protecting adults at risk in care” (2000).

Abuse is “a violation of an individual’s human and civil rights by any other person or persons’ and can be perpetrated by, and to, anyone, regardless of age, sex, gender, class or ethnicity”. Abuse may be a single act or repeated over a period of time. Somebody may abuse or neglect an adult at risk by inflicting harm, or by failing to act to prevent harm. Adults at risk may be abused in a family, in an institutional or community setting, by those known to them or, more rarely, by a stranger.

It is important to understand that an adult at risk may be abused by another adult at risk.

Safeguarding children

For the purposes of this Safeguarding Policy the term ‘child’ or ‘children’ applies to children and young people under 18 years of age and statemented (“vulnerable”) young people under the age of 25.

Safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children is defined by “Working Together to Safeguard Children: A guide to inter-agency working to safeguard and promote the welfare of children, March 2018” (available at www.gov.uk/government/publications/working-together-to-safeguard-children--2) as:

- Protecting children from maltreatment;
- Preventing impairment of children's health or development;
- Ensuring that children grow up in circumstances consistent with the provision of safe and effective care;
- Acting to enable all children to have the best outcomes.

Definition of abuse

The definitions of abuse set out below are taken from the Department of Education document “Working Together to Safeguard Children” (2013) and the Department of Health document “No Secrets: guidance on protecting adults at risk in care” (2000).

Abuse is “a violation of an individual’s human and civil rights by any other person or persons’ and can be perpetrated by, and to, anyone, regardless of age, sex, gender, class or ethnicity”. Abuse may be a single act or repeated over a period of time. Somebody may abuse or neglect a child by inflicting harm, or by failing to act to prevent harm. Children may be abused in a family, in an institutional or community setting, by those known to them or, more rarely, by a stranger.

It is important to understand that a child or young person may be abused by another child or young person.

Types of abuse – definitions:

- Discriminatory – Unequal treatment, verbal abuse, inappropriate use of language, slurs, harassment, deliberate exclusion, lack of respect for beliefs and cultural background.
- Physical – The non-accidental infliction of physical force that results in bodily injury, pain or impairment.
- Sexual – Such as rape, sexual assault, or sexual acts, such as unwanted touching, to which the young person has not or could not have consented, or they were pressured into consenting to.
- Psychological – The use of threats, humiliation, bullying, swearing and other verbal conduct or any other form of mental cruelty that results in mental or physical distress. It includes the denial of basic human and civil rights such as choice, self-expression, privacy, dignity and emotional contact.
- Financial – The unauthorised and improper use of funds, property or any resources belonging to an individual or withholding an individual's funds for own use.
- Neglect – such as ignoring medical or physical care needs and preventing access to health, social care or educational services or withholding the necessities of life such as food, drink or heating.

Fulfilling The Charity's Safeguarding Obligations

For any queries relating to 'safeguarding,' staff and volunteers are required to contact one of the designated safeguarding leads.

Safe recruitment practices

The Charity will adopt safe recruitment practices to reduce the likelihood of recruiting unsuitable staff. This includes ensuring that a statement about the organisation's commitment to safeguarding is included in all recruitment and selection materials including reference to regular DBS checks. Satisfactory explanations for any gaps in employment will be sought. References will always be obtained direct from the referee, never through the applicant.

Appropriate levels of Disclosure and Barring Service checks will be obtained.

Disclosure and Barring Service (DBS) Check Policy

The Charity requires staff to have an enhanced DBS check if they have unsupervised contact with adults at risk and children. The CEO, in consultation with The Board of Trustees, is responsible for deciding which roles require a DBS check, the level of check required and for ensuring that DBS checks are kept up to date.

Appropriate training for employees

Everyone with access to adults at risk and children shall have regular training on safeguarding matters.

Employees must accept and be able to recognise their responsibilities with regard to their own good practice and the reporting of signs of suspected abuse or neglect to either the Police or the relevant County Council's Central Duty Team, and understand TWLC's obligation to ensure confirmation is received from that County Council that any referrals made are being actively dealt with.

Training needs and opportunities relating to adults at risk and children, and safeguarding and protection issues will be identified and addressed through The Charity's Induction Procedure, and in response to any changes in legislation.

Training may include internal courses/workshops, externally accredited courses/seminars or workshops organised by relevant agencies.

The CEO will keep a record of all staff and volunteers who have received training.

Disclosure of Information

General Data Protection Regulations, Data Protection Act 2018 and human rights laws are not barriers to justified information sharing but provide a framework to ensure that personal information about living individuals is shared appropriately;

- Staff must be open and honest with the individual (and/or their family where appropriate) from the outset about why, what, how and with whom information will, or could be shared, and seek their agreement, unless it is unsafe or inappropriate to do so;
- Staff must seek advice from other practitioners, and more specifically a Designated Safeguarding Lead if they are in any doubt about sharing the information concerned, without disclosing the identity of the individual where possible;
- Where possible staff must share with consent and, where possible, respect the wishes of those who do not consent to having their information shared. Under the GDPR and Data Protection Act 2018 staff may share information without consent if (in their judgement) there is a lawful reason to do so, such as where safety may be at risk. They will need to base their judgment on the facts of the case. When they are sharing or requesting personal information from someone, they must be clear on the basis upon which they are doing so. Where there is no consent, staff must be mindful that an individual might not expect information to be shared.

- Staff must consider safety and well-being of individuals concerned: They must base their information sharing decisions on considerations of the safety and wellbeing of the individual and others who may be affected by their actions;
- Information sharing must be necessary, proportionate, relevant, accurate, timely and secure: Staff must ensure that the information they share is necessary for the purpose for which you are sharing it, is shared only with those people who need to have it, is accurate and up-to-date, is shared in a timely fashion, and is shared securely (practitioners must always follow their organisation's policy on security for handling personal information);
- Staff must make a record of their decision and the reasons for it - whether it is to share information or not. If you decide to share, then record what you have shared, with whom and for what purpose. Designated leads will have a central location for this information.

Procedure where there are concerns

Any employee, volunteer or trustee of The Charity who has concerns about the welfare of an adult at risk or child must raise those concerns with one of the designated safeguarding leads without delay, and in any event, within 48 hours of the information coming to light.

The first priority should always be to protect the safety of all adults at risk and children and it is the responsibility of all employees, volunteers or trustees of The Charity to act on any suspicion or evidence of abuse or neglect.

The information of the concerns and the action taken should be recorded and passed to the relevant agencies within 7 days.

If an adult or child is at risk of immediate harm, then through discussion with a designated lead, the employee, volunteer or trustee will inform the appropriate agency without delay and in any event not later than 48 hours after the concerns have been raised. All action and reason for action is to be recorded within The Charity's paperwork. Failure to report concerns may lead to suspension pending investigation and for staff, disciplinary action

If a member of staff, volunteer or trustee is alleged to have put the welfare or safety of an adult at risk or child at risk, the designated lead will inform the appropriate agency and cooperate fully with the agency in the manner in which the matter is dealt with, including the immediate suspension of the person pending an investigation

Allegations against staff and volunteers

It is important that any concerns for the welfare of an adult at risk or child arising from abuse or harassment by a member of staff or volunteer should be reported immediately to the designated safeguarding person and an incident form completed. Concerns about poor practice should also be reported to the designated person (if the concerns are relating to the designated person, then it must be reported to the board of trustees).

Where there are allegations of abuse or concerns about poor practice of staff or volunteers there are three strands of investigation as follows:

- Adult at risk/child protection investigation (externally led)
- Criminal investigation (externally led by the Police Authority)
- A disciplinary investigation (internally led)

It may be that the employee will be suspended with pay during an investigation or a volunteer asked to cease volunteering pending the outcome of the investigation.

It is the responsibility of the Strategic Lead for Safeguarding to:

- Inform The Charity's strategic safeguarding leads of concerns raised and the process followed.
- Follow up concerns and safeguarding issues to the relevant agencies.
- Liaise with the relevant agencies as identified in accordance with The Charity's confidentiality procedure.

- Liaise with the scheme's strategic lead person on safeguarding adults at risk and children about the safeguarding concerns particularly where there are allegations against staff trustees and volunteers within local adult at risk policies and procedures.

Retention of Records

A factual, dated record of concerns about an adult at risk or child will be kept in line with The Charity's record keeping and procedures.

Records kept by employees about adults at risk and children should only include contacts made, referrals made including date, time and reason, and referral agency.

This policy will be reviewed annually and more regularly if appropriate.
